Go to Jos. F. Hansman and call for his 1891 hand-made Bourbon. You will find it matured well, palatable and strictly pure.

The Mound City Horse Shoe paint has stood the test of time. I have handled it for 10 years and can recommend it to be equally as good and go farther than strictly pure lead and oil. It costs no more.

M. H. HOLCOMB.

Smoke El Universo 5-cent cigars.

Now is the time to fix up for winter. Holcomb carries everything in building, plastering and painting materials.

Mrs. Thomas Lingo, living on the Cunningham farm south of the depot, gave birth to a still-born child Wednesday morning.

Miss Mabel Hyde, daughter of Mr. H. C. Hyde, living one mile north of Keytesville, was married in St. Louis Sept. 20 to Mr. Arthur Beasley.

Wm. Gaston Keytesville's efficient postmaster, is convalescing slowly after a severe spell of flux. It is hoped the danger point is passed in his case.

J. O. Hedrick, who lives on the bar brought a mammoth pumpkin to town last Wednesday which weighed 94 pounds. He sold it to Wm. Ward for 50 cents.

Blair Miller, successor to Miller & Lewis, left Tuesday for St. Louis to make extensive purchases of dry goods, boots and shoes and gents' and ladies' furnishing goods.

If you want to see something real artistic go to Reager's gallery in Keytesville Saturday, October 6, and see the exhibit Mrs. Reager had on display at the late photographers' convention in Kansas City.

Every one should turn out and hear Mrs. Harper, who is the guest of the Keytesville Bryan club, talk upon the political issues in which we are all vitally interested. It will pay you to hear her.

John Dorrance of four miles north-west of Keytesville delivered 163 head of cattle at Dalton last Saturday, which he sold some time ago to Jo Schwarzhild and Sulzberger of Kansas City at five cents a pound.

Reager's art gallery will be reopened the first Saturday in October. All persons wishing to see the exhibit which was taken to the photographers' convention at Kansas City may do so by calling on that day. Remember, the first Saturday in October.

Now is the time to paint your house and Mound City Horse Shoe paint is the paint to use. Sold by M. H. Holcomb.

I have on special sale all of my ready-to-wear hats, children's caps, baby caps, and Bryan and McKinley caps. MRS. C. P. VANDIVER.

Mrs. A. F. Gill came up from Huntsville Friday afternoon and remained until Sunday night visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Agee.

Blair Miller, successor to Miller & Lewis, the Keytesville dry goods merchants, places an advertisement in this week's paper. Don't fail to read it.

A ghost, that frolics in ghoulish glee in the vicinity of the restaurant conducted by Taylor Harold, col., and also about the street north of H. M. Holcomb's lumber yard, is straightening out the kinks in the locks of some of our colored population.

Mrs. John Daily, Jr., and her two children of two miles west of town left last Saturday for Broadus, Mont., where the head of the family has been living on a large ranch for several months past. They will make their permanent home in Montana.

Mrs. Clara B. Reager will have the collection of the photographs, on which she took the prize at the recent photographers' convention in Kansas City, on display at her gallery in Keytesville tomorrow, Saturday, October, 6. Don't fail to see them.

Miss Maude Smith of near Wakena, one of Carroll county's most accomplished young ladies, spent Wednesday in Keytesville visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Thomas, and left on the midnight train for St. Louis, where she will spend a few days at the exposition.

Clarence Gaston, an old Keytesville boy, who has been holding a good position with a real estate firm in Boston, arrived at home last Saturday on account of the serious illness of his father, W. C. Gaston, whose condition has greatly improved during the past week. Clarence looks as though life in the effete East agreed with him.

After several weeks of indisposition it was a pleasure to see Uncle John Gaston on the streets of Keytesville again Wednesday.

Wm. Rosenstein, the merchant prince of Brunswick, plants a half-page advertisement in the COURIER this week. Mr. Rosenstein has just received a large stock of clothing, dry goods, dress goods, carpets, rugs, oilcloths, blankets, etc. His line of ladies' and misses' fall jackets is superb and he invites special attention to them.

While in Brunswick Tuesday we had the pleasure of meeting our friend, Rev. Grant H. Robbins, who so acceptably served the pulpits of Zion and Mendon M. E. churches some years since. He is now serving the Hamilton church, and is well pleased with his work. He came down to Brunswick to deliver a lecture on "Fraternity and Protection."

Why not turn the Keytesville opera house over to the whistling hoodlums and let them whistle themselves to death? The conduct of the whistling fiends at Keytesville's play house suggests that a small hell has broken loose in this community, and that the management of the edifice is glad of it. If it is not rejoiced over by the management why is not the whistling nuisance abated?

Messrs. Davis & Shepperd, who have been conducting a bakery, lunch room and confectionery establishment in the east room of the Young block on West Bridge street, bought out Coy & Fennell's restaurant, one door east of S. M. White's grocery store, and consolidated the two lines of business at the Coy & Fennell stand. The COURIER wishes Messrs. Davis & Shepperd continued success.

Mr. J. P. Tippet and two daughters, Miss Mollie and Mrs. Geo. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cuneingham went to St. Louis Sunday night to attend the fair and partly on business. While there Miss Mollie will be treated for lameness which she contracted last winter as the result of a fall, and because of which she has not been able to walk since except with the aid of a crutch. The doctor writes very hopeful of her case.

We regret to announce the death of Fred Doughty, son of Uncle Jack Doughty of Musselfork. He died Tuesday morning, we understand of that dreaded disease, consumption. He had made one or two trips to Colorado for the benefit of his health hoping to stop the ravages of the grim monster, but seeing the effort was futile, Fred returned to his father, as he said, to die.

The Keytesville ladies are generally good looking and quite up-to-date in style, but they are a back number when they go to the opera house and keep on their hats, some of which are nearly as large as half bushel measures, and obstruct the view of those who sit behind them, but who have as much right to see the show as the ladies who wear such colossal headgear.

Wheeler brothers, Judge Rucker, L. M. and George H. Applegate, whose property adjoins the street east of the public school building, have all put down nice four-foot sidewalks in front of their residences, which is highly commendable in them. All that is lacking for them to be up with Wm. E. Hill in the walk business is for them to have their walks nicely painted, as Mr. Hill did.

Miss Duow whose home is in Albany, New York, a missionary, recently returned from China, gives it as her opinion that there is no use in talking settlement of Chinese affairs till we have the heads of Prince Tuan and the Empress Dowager. It is foolish to think of honest peace while they are living. In my judgment they should be beheaded before negotiations for peace are entered into."

Prof. C. H. Dodge of Quincy, Ill., gave his stereopticon entertainment at the opera house last Thursday night and was greeted by a large audience, as the show was paid for by funds raised for the old settlers picnic. The pictures were quite interesting, and the only thing the entertainment lacked was Prof. Dodge's deficiency in being a good talker so that he could have explained the various views more. The picture that met the heartiest encore of the evening was that of William Jennings Bryan, the next president of the United States.
